COACH WILLIAM (RED) HOLZMAN

Red Holzman

Long a popular figure with the fans and players alike, Red Holzman achieved, in his first full season as head coach of the Knicks, unprecedented success as New York became the hottest team in the NBA, winning 38 of 46 to finish with the best record in the club's history, 54-28. It was particularly notable because one of Holzman's top performers, Cazzie Russell, suffered a broken ankle in January, scarcely 10 days after the loss of backupman Phil Jackson. Red appears to have acquired a magic touch as coach of the Knicks. When he first took the assignment as replacement for Dick McGuire on December 27, 1967, Holzman drove the New Yorkers from last to third place and a playoff spot. After an agonizing beginning (6-13) last season, Red drove the Knicks back on the winning course and finished third again. This time Holzman added a four-game sweep of first place Baltimore in the playoffs and carried Boston's world champion Celtics to six furiously contested games, the last of which saw Walt Frazier hampered with injury. Red is not unaccustomed to being in the limelight despite the fact that he spent almost a decade behind the scenes as a scout and recruiter. Red played his collegiate basketball at CCNY under Nat Holman. He was the star of Holman's 1941 and 1942 teams which made it to the National Invitation Tournament. He was named to several All-America teams and then joined the Navy where he became a standout on the Norfolk Naval Base team. Holzman joined the pro ranks with the Rochester Royals (now Cincinnati) in the 1945-46 season and, after eight years, moved to the Milwaukee Hawks. Before the 1953-54 season was over, he was serving as player-coach of the Hawks—who eventually switched to St. Louis (now Atlanta). In 1958 he came to New York as the Knicks' scout. Red is a native New Yorker (born August 10, 1920) who graduated P.S. 178 in Brooklyn and was a member of the first graduating class at Franklin K. Lane High School in 1938. Married to the former Selma Puretz, Holzman has a daughter, Gail, who graduated Fairleigh Dickinson University at Madison, N. J., just as her father began his first playoff venture as the Knicks' skipper.

DICK BARNETT

Age—33, born in Gary, Indiana, Oct. 2, 1936
Height—6-4, Weight—190, College—Tennessee State
Hometown—Gary, Indiana

The "old man" of the New York Knicks, Dick Barnett had another great season last year. The 33-year-old veteran, who will be beginning his 10th season in the National Basketball Association, averaged 17.6 points a game, pouring in 1442 points, second highest on the club. Barnett, who appears lazy-like on the floor, is deceptively quick and has good moves as well as one of the most unorthodox shots in the league. He is a left-handed shooter. Barnett showed his consistency by averaging in double figures against all the clubs. During his pro career, Barnett has scored 11,687 points in regular season com-

NATE BOWMAN

Age—26, born in Ft. Worth, Texas, March 19, 1943
Height—6-10, Weight—245, College—Wichita State
Hometown—Ft. Worth, Texas

Nate Bowman had his best season in the National Basketball Association in 1968-69, when, as a backup center for Willis Reed, he scored 193 points. Although his 2.9 average isn't impressive, Bowman was used only for short periods of time. Whenever Bowman was called on by coach Red Holzman, he performed more than adequately and did a good job on Wes Unseld of Baltimore in the playoffs. Bowman, now in his fourth year in the N.B.A. was originally drafted No. 1 by the Cincinnati Royals after a highly successful career at Wichita State. His debut in pro ball was hampered by a series of injuries. The Chicago Bulls selected Bowman in the expansion draft but again injuries hurt his chances. He was sold to Philadelphia and eventually was selected by Seattle in its expansion draft. Bowman was purchased by the Knicks prior to the 1967-68 season. A hard worker, Bowman keeps in good shape throughout the season, working and playing on the New York area playgrounds. He's one of the hardest workers on the Knicks. A native of Fort Worth, Texas, where he was a prep star at Kirkpatrick High School, Bowman went on to Wichita State where he was a teammate of Dave Stallworth, now with the Knicks.

BILL BRADLEY

Age—26, born in Crystal City, Mo., July 28, 1943
Height—6-5, Weight—205, College—Princeton
Home—New York City

Bill Bradley came of age during the 1968-69 basketball season. Probably one of the most well-known athletes of this generation, Bradley agreed to turn professional in 1967 after completing two years of studies at Oxford University, England. That first year he missed part of training due to a service commitment and then never showed the great form he had exhibited in college at Princeton where he was a two-time All-America. It was different last season. Bradley had the benefit of training and came along strongly. Bill started the season as the top substitute, but when Cazzie Russell broke his ankle in January, Bradley stepped into a starting role. He averaged 12.4 points a game (better than 15 after becoming a starter) and developed his all-around game. Bradley's greatest asset is his ability to play either guard or forward. As a collegian, Bradley rewrote the Ivy League record books, scoring 2,503 points in 83 games. He hit 51 points in one game and had a phenomenal percentage as a senior with a .522 from the field. Bradley also set the N.C.A.A. playoff scoring record for one game with 58 points against Wichita State in 1965. He was the Knicks' top draft choice that year but delayed his entrance into pro ball to complete studies as a Rhodes scholar. Bradley was also a member of the 1960 Olympic championship basketball team.

DAVE DeBUSSCHERE

Age—29, born in Detroit, Michigan, Nov. 16, 1940
Height—6-6, Weight—208, College—Detroit University
Hometown—Detroit, Michigan

When Dave DeBusschere was obtained from the Detroit Pistons on Dec. 19, 1968, for Walt Bellamy and Butch Komives, the fortunes of the Knicks changed drastically. DeBusschere added the spark which ignited the Knicks, leading them to their winningest season in history. The muscular forward, who starred at Detroit University, where he won letters in basketball and baseball before becoming the Piston's territorial choice in 1962, was selected to the All-N.B.A. second team and was a first team All-Defense selection. DeBusschere joined the Pistons following his graduation, but also played professional base-

Walt Frazier

Age—24, born in Atlanta, Ga., March 29, 1945
Height—6-4, Weight—205, College—Southern Illinois
Hometown—New York City

Walt Frazier is quickly establishing himself as the best guard in the National Basketball Association. Last year, his second season in the league, Frazier gained recognition as the best defensive player over such notables as Bill Russell and Wilt Chamberlain. After being used sparingly in his first season, Frazier stepped in and became the team general. An exciting player, whether on defense or offense, Frazier averaged 17.5 points during the regular season and 21.2 during the playoffs. And it was his leg injury in the fifth game of the playoffs against Boston which played an important role in the Knicks' eventual defeat. Frazier had a career high of 34 points in the playoffs and had 17 assists, a new Knick mark in post-season play. Nicknamed, "Clyde" because of his fast hands and exquisite clothing tastes, Frazier came to New York in 1967 as top draft choice after leading Southern Illinois to the National Invitation Tournament championship, where he was named the MVP. Frazier was also a two-time Little All-America in college. In addition to being the third leading scorer on the club, Frazier set a regular season mark for assists with 635 and shot .505 from the field.

WILMER "BILL" HOSKET

Bill Hosket

Age—23, born in Dayton, Ohio, December 20, 1946
Height—6-7½, Weight—230, College—Ohio State
Hometown—Dayton, Ohio

After being drafted in the first round by the Knicks in 1968, Bill Hosket's debut in the National Basketball Association was delayed more than a month when he was selected to play for the United States in the Olympic Games at Mexico City. The Americans defeated Yugoslavia in the championship game for the Gold Medal and Hosket played an important part in the road to the title. Hosket missed the entire training period and was worked in slowly by coach Red Holzman. At the same time, the former Ohio State star was hampered by a knee injury and was forced to keep it bandaged all season. It was operated on during the off-season. Appearing in 50 games with the Knicks, mainly spelling the forwards, Hosket averaged 2.6 points a game. As a senior at Ohio State, Bill led Ohio State to a third place finish in the NCAA Tournament. He was Player-of-the-Year in the Big 10 in 1968 when he grabbed off 332 rebounds and tallied 584 points for a 20.1 average. Hosket has a good outside shot, moves well to the boards and is a fine defensive player. Hosket and another of the Knicks' top draft choices, Don May, played together in high school at Belmont in Dayton. Off the court, Hosket is very quiet and soft spoken. His wife Pat, who is more than a foot shorter, is his top fan.

PHIL JACKSON

Age—24, born in Deer Lodge, Montana, Sept. 17, 1945
Height—6-8, Weight—220, College—North Dakota U.
Home—Williston, North Dakota

After playing extremely well the first half of the season, Phil Jackson injured his back and missed the remainder of the year. In order to remedy the ailment, Jackson was forced to undergo a spinal fusion and the road to complete recovery is long. His ability to bounce back from the injury is important to the Knicks, who value his scoring and defensive play. In 47 games last year, Jackson averaged 7.1 points a game. He was mainly used as a substitute forward. The defensive ability of Jackson, who has extremely quick moves and long arms, was a big plus for the Knicks. Coach Red Holzman emphasizes defense. Jackson has a good hook, a fine jumper, and is a good driver. He was New York's number two draft choice in 1967 after having rewritten the record books at North Dakota University. He established 17 new marks in three varsity campaigns. Jackson was named to the Little All-America team for two consecutive years and helped lead the school to three consecutive berths in the small college NCAA regional playoffs. A philosophy major in college, Jackson was also an outstanding baseball player. He pitched in the South Dakota semi-pro collegiate Basin League. In his first year with the Knicks, Jackson averaged 6.2 points a game.

DON MAY

Don May

Age—23, born in Dayton, Ohio, January 3, 1946
Height—6-4, Weight—220, College—Dayton
Home—Dayton, Ohio

Don May is in his second season with the New York Knicks. Last year, May averaged 4.3 points a game during the regular season when he was used as a backup forward. He was helpful to the Knicks cause the latter half of the season following injuries to Phil Jackson and Cazzie Russell. In the playoffs, May filled in well, especially in the series against Baltimore which the Knicks swept in four straight games. May is a strong rebounder, despite his size, and has an excellent outside shot. He was the second draft choice of the Knicks in 1968 after leading Dayton to the National Invitation Basketball Tournament championship. May was selected as the M.V.P. in the classic, following in the footsteps of another Knick, Walt Frazier, the 1967 M.V.P. He completely re-wrote Dayton record books, pulling down 1,301 rebounds over a three-year period, averaging 14.5 a game over the same span. May was also the finest scorer Dayton has ever produced, tallying 1,980 points for an average of 22.0. A two-time All-America, May was chosen to the NCAA All-Tournament team in the mideast regional and national finals, as well as being selected the M.V.P. in mideast play during the 1967 tournament in which Dayton was the runner-up to UCLA. At Dayton during his college career, May scored more than 20 points a game on 60 occasions.

WILLIS REED

Age—27, born in Hico, La., June 25, 1942
Height—6-10, Weight—240, College—Grambling
Home—Bernice, La.

The captain of the Knicks, Willis Reed has become probably the most underrated player in the National Basketball Association. And it's not the fact that he doesn't have the necessary credentials, like five seasons in the league and five selections to the league's All-Star game. Reed has also scored over 7,000 career points and last year set a club record for rebounds with 1,191. He also held the old mark set in his rookie year. Last season was also Reed's best from a scoring standpoint with 1,733 and much of this success can be attributed to his move back to center following the trade of Walt Bellamy to Detroit. Reed was a center in college at Grambling where he led the school to one NAIA championship and three Southwest Athletic Conference titles. After being drafted in 1964 in the second round of the draft, Reed proceeded

MIKE RIORDAN

Age—24, born in New York City, July 9, 1945
Height—6-4, Weight—200, College—Providence
Hometown—Great Neck, Long Island

Mike Riordan was one of the pleasant surprises on the New York Knicks last season. After a successful career in the Eastern League, where he played for Allentown, Pa., Mike joined the Knicks and earned a position as a reserve guard. He was a coaches delight—a player, who even though he wasn't putting in a lot of playing time, was always out there hustling and working hard. During the early parts of the season, Riordan was used as the player to pick up "team fouls" and his aggressiveness delighted the Madison Square Garden fans. As the season progressed, Riordan showed he could do a lot more than foul. His overall game improved tremendously and he capped it off with a 15 point performance in the sixth game of the playoffs against the Celtics. During the regular season, Riordan averaged 2.3 points, but only played 397 minutes. He more than doubled the average in the playoffs. A graduate of Holy Cross High School, L.I., Riordan played college ball at Providence, most of the time in the shadow of Jimmy Walker. During his three years of varsity competition, Providence won 65 games, losing only 14. He then played in the Eastern League where he won the Sportsmanship Award and came close to being named "Rookie of the Year." Coach Red Holzman expects to use Riordan a lot more this year, spelling Dick Barnett and Walt Frazier. Riordan's rapid development should continue and he could become one of the better backcourt reserves in the league. Mike was a supplementary draft pick in 1967 but was delayed in joining the Knicks because of a service commitment.

CAZZIE RUSSELL

Age—25, born in Chicago, Ill., June 7, 1944
Height—6-5, Weight—218, College—Michigan
Hometown—Chicago, Illinois

Cazzie Russell was averaging better than 18 points a game for the Knicks last season when tragedy struck. On Jan. 21, while going for a loose ball in a game against the Seattle SuperSonics at the Garden, Russell fell and Joe Kennedy landed across his ankle, breaking it. Cazzie missed the remainder of the regular season, but did manage, on sheer courage, to play a few minutes in the second round of the playoffs. The ankle is completely healed. A versatile player, Russell can play either guard or forward although he functions better at the latter. A graceful operator on the floor, Cazzie has gained the reputation as the one the Knicks go to in clutch situations. He has all the attributes to be a great player, including his size. He is possessed of long arms and big hands, is quick and can drive as well as hit the jumper. As a collegian, Russell was everybody's All-America at Michigan, where he led the Wolverines in scoring with a 30 point average as a senior. He was the Knicks' top draft choice in 1966 and rewarded the team for its confidence in him by scoring in double figures each of his three seasons as a pro.

DAVE STALLWORTH

David Stallworth

Age—27, born in Dallas, Tex., Dec. 20, 1941
Height—6 feet 7 inches. Weight—215 pounds
Home—Compton, Calif. College—Wichita State

For Dave Stallworth, the return to professional basketball is truly the realization of "The Impossible Dream." All but counted out when his seizure of March 7, 1967, at Fresno, Calif., was diagnosed as a heart attack, "Dave the Rave," then the best sixth man the Knicks ever had, told his interviewers, "Basketball is something you can coach and play and watch all of your life." His playing days appeared to be over. So he turned to coaching and met with immediate and spectacular success. After serving for one year as an assistant coach, Dave took charge of the Wichita Builders, an amateur club playing the circuit under the sanction of the National Amateur Basketball Ass'n., and took his team into the national finals with a record of 28-0. The Builders lost the championship by one point to Tacoma, Washington. Now back with the Knicks after a two-year absence, this exciting offensive and defensive performer, whose speed and rebounding abilities make him a valuable asset, has concentrated on the basket as never before. "My outside shot is better than ever," he says, "and I'm just looking to play." First-round draft choice of the Knicks in 1965, Stallworth played in all of the club's 80 games in his rookie year, scoring 1,004 points for a 12.6 norm. He missed the last five games in his second season but actually played only four minutes fewer than he had in his first year. In his second campaign he contributed 989 points for a 13-point game average. Dave has played the corner and has performed in the backcourt but most frequently he was used as the team's "sixth man" because he had demonstrated the ability to provide instant surge when he entered the lineup. He boasts every shot in the book and first established himself as a scorer when, as a freshman at Wichita State, he set a school frosh record of 28 points per game. He went on to win All-America honors and was named Most Valuable Player in the Missouri Valley Conference, gaining a bid to play on the U.S. team in the Pan-American Games. The burden of school work prevented his participation in the Games, however. His greatest performance was against the University of Cincinnati when, as a sophomore, he scored 46 points. At that time the Bearcats were defending national champions and the top defensive team in the nation. While playing for James Madison High School in Dallas, Stallworth once scored 65 of his team's 82 points.

John Warren

Age—22, born in Sparta, Ga., Jan. 7, 1947
Height—6 feet 3 inches. Weight—180 pounds
Home—Far Rockaway, N. Y. College—St. John's

John Warren, dubbed "The Iceman" by Coach Lou Carnesecca when both of them were shaping the basketball destinies of St. John's University, was the No. 1 draft choice of the Knicks this year. So labelled because of his cool performances throughout his collegiate career, Warren played both ends of the court and invariably drew the main defensive responsibility of playing the opposition's top operative. This assignment in no way detracted from his offensive contributions as Warren set two records for shooting while at St. John's. His three-year varsity achievements included a .512 shooting average—highest career record in the school's history. Evidence of his ability to shoot accurately was first demonstrated in his sophomore semester when his average of .522 became a new St. John's field goal mark. His collegiate free throw average was a robust .813 and his 1,308 career point total ranked him sixth in St. John's history. Playing at Madison Square Garden in the 1968 Holiday Festival, John led the Redmen to the finals on the strength of high point performances against Michigan State and North Carolina before his club was beaten by the nation's top-ranked UCLA. Twice named to the All-Metropolitan Team by the Metropolitan Basketball Writers' Ass'n., Warren was also selected as a member of the District One All-Star Team by the U.S. Basketball Writers' Ass'n. in 1968-69. Competing in tight games was old hat for John. As a member of St. John's so-called "Cardiac Kids" in the 1967-68 season, John took part in 18 last-minute decisions, of which the Redmen won 12.

DAN WHELAN—Trainer

"If we can get through the season without any serious injury"—that's what the saying is on any contender for the championship. The person who is with the Knicks to see that nothing serious happens is Danny Whelan. The New York trainer is in his third year with the Knicks after being in baseball for more than 20 campaigns. As a youngster, he worked, doing odd jobs in the clubhouse for the ballplayers. An outstanding athlete, himself, good enough to receive a baseball scholarship from the Boston Red Sox to St. Mary's College, Oakland, Danny starred as a shortstop-third baseman in high school and college. The trainer picked up most of his healer's knowledge from two of the most famous men in the business, Bobby Johnson and Denny Carroll. In 1946, he was named trainer of the Rochester Red Wings of the International League. He remained with the team for 12 years. The club won two Little World Series, and failed to make the playoffs only once during this time. He was so popular with the fans that he was given a night, something unusual for a trainer in sporting circles. In 1959 he assumed similar chores with the Pittsburgh Pirates, remaining with the club through the 1966 season.

EDDIE DONOVAN—Vice President and General Manager

In 1964, when Eddie Donovan was named General Manager of the New York Knicks, he embarked on a "five-year plan" of respectability. This is the fifth year of that plan and the success of the Knicks has already begun to unfold. Last year's team won more games than any in New York history. Wherever Donovan has gone throughout his career as coach, and now general manager, it has been marked by success. Eddie was a player at St. Bonaventure in Olean, N.Y. where his career was curtailed by an injury in his senior year. In one respect it was a great break for Donovan, because he was named freshman coach. After a hitch in the Navy, Donovan coached high school ball in Olean and then joined the St. Bonaventure staff as an assistant coach. He later became head coach and during his eight year stay the Bonnies won 139 and lost 57. Donovan's team earned five post season berths and courted the national championship in 1960 when they finished second in the polls. Donovan took over the Knicks' coaching reins from Carl Brown, May 8, 1961, and three and one half years later was named general manager. Last season he took on added duties as vice-president, too. The 46-year-old GM is a soft-spoken, mild mannered man whose philosophy and basketball can be described in two words—desire and effort. Donovan is truly devoted to his job and to his family—his wife Marjorie and their five children, three boys and two girls. Donovan still resides in Olean.

DICK McGUIRE—Chief Scout

A native New Yorker, Dick McGuire will travel more than 100,000 miles this year, his second as chief scout for the Knicks. He'll be doing more than just seeing the country, however. He'll be taking a long look at the players who will, one day, become the nucleus of N.B.A. teams. With the size of the league always increasing, it's most important to make the right selection, especially on the first couple of choices. After having played 11 years in the N.B.A., eight with the Knicks and three with the Detroit Pistons, McGuire became coach of the Motor City club. He ended his playing days in 1960 and retired as coach of the Pistons at the conclusion of the 1963 season. Dick rejoined the Knicks as coach in November 1965 and led them into the playoffs in 1966-67 before switching jobs with Red Holzman. If anybody knows the Knicks needs it's McGuire. As a player, Dick was a flashy backcourt operator leading the team in assists for six consecutive seasons. "Tricky Dick" as he is nicknamed, played college ball at St. John's and was the Knicks top draft choice in 1949. He was a member of the league Eastern Division All-Star team seven times. Dick is married to the former Terry Sabbatino, a New Yorker, and resides in Huntington, L.I., with their four children.

KNICKS DREW OVER MILLION FANS IN 1968-69

The New York Knickerbockers became the first team in the history of professional basketball to attract more than a million fans during one season. The Knicks' total attendance for both home and away games (82), including the playoffs (10) was 1,032,768 for the 1968-69 campaign. Thirty-seven regular season dates at Madison Square Garden drew 569,163, a National Basketball Assn. record; five home playoff games drew a capacity of 97,500; 45 regular season road games drew 300,865 while five road playoff games drew 65,240. There were 14 capacity Garden dates (19,500) with the final result seven consecutive, including five-for-five in post-season play.

to lead the squad in 10 departments. He switched to forward the following year and had some trouble adjusting. He eventually mastered the position, but is more content at center. The big man of the Knicks is the only player in the N.B.A. to ever have been selected for the All-Star game at center and forward. Reed's top performance last season came in the playoffs when he scored 43 points against the Baltimore Bullets in the Knicks stunning four game sweep of the Eastern Division champions. It was a new Knick playoff mark. Reed has averaged better than 24 points a game in playoff competition. During the summer, Reed runs his own basketball camp.

petition and that ranks him in the top 10 among active players. The Knicks obtained Barnett from the Los Angeles Lakers in 1965 for Bob Boozer. L.A. had purchased Barnett from Syracuse in 1962 for a price reported to be the largest ever paid for a player up to that time. Barnett proceeded to help lead the Lakers to three divisional championships. While in college, Dick was voted the Most Valuable Player of the NAIA Tournament for two consecutive seasons. He was a first round draft choice of Syracuse. In 1968, Barnett was selected to participate in the league's All-Star game.

OPPONENTS HELD BELOW 100 MARK 26 TIMES

The New York Knickerbockers held the opposition under 100 points 26 times during the 1968-69 season, including three times during the playoffs, winning 24 and losing two. Six times opponents were held to exactly 100 with a 4-2 mark. On six occasions opponents were kept below 90 (Knicks won them all) while San Francisco, which failed to reach 100 all season against New York, was once held below 80.

ball during the off-season. He pitched in the major leagues with the Chicago White Sox. Early in the 1964-65 season, DeBusschere also took over the coaching duties of the Pistons, a position he held until late in 1967. At that time he was the youngest coach in professional sports. While with the Pistons, DeBusschere was a member of three All-Star game squads, scoring 22 points in the 1967 contest. After joining the Knicks, DeBusschere proceeded to average 16.4 points a game during the regular season and 16.3 in the playoffs. He was also the Knicks' second leading rebounder. During the off-season, DeBusschere, one of the most personable guys in the league, works for a stockbroker in Detroit.

SMITH TOPS KNICKS' NAME LIST

Not surprisingly, the name Smith has graced more Knicks than any other. Three Knicks have had the name, starting with Tom Smith, who played in one game during the 1951-52 season, followed by Ed Smith, who got into 11 games in 1953-54, and Bill Smith, who appeared in nine games during 1961-62. Coincidentally, both Tom and Bill were graduates of St. Peter's College, while Ed was a Harvard man.

KNICKS SET ONE MARK, TIED ONE IN 1968-69

The New York Knickerbockers set a club mark for consecutive victories during the 1968-69 season by winning 11 in a row from Jan. 25 through Feb. 15. The club, which finished with a 30-7 regular season mark at Madison Square Garden, also tied a team record by winning 20 straight at home, Nov. 23 through Feb. 15. The mark was originally set by the 1947-48 Knicks.

KNICKS MADE LEAGUE DEBUT AGAINST TORONTO

A pair of field goals by Dick Murphy and a foul by Tommy Byrnes in the final 2½ minutes of play, enabled the Knicks to edge the Toronto Huskies, 68-66, in the opening game of the Basketball Association of America, the forerunner to the National Basketball Association on Nov. 2, 1946. The Knicks started Ossie Schectman and Stan Stutz at the forwards; Jake Weber at center and Ralph Kaplowitz and Leo Gottlieb at the guards. For Toronto the forwards were Charles Hoefer and Dick Fitzgerald, forwards; Ed Sadowski, the playing coach and center, and Ray Wertis and Bob McCarron, guards.

KNICKS MADE GARDEN DEBUT AGAINST CHICAGO

The first game the Knicks played in New York was on Nov. 11, 1946 at Madison Square Garden against the Chicago Stags. The makeup of both starting teams were: New York — Forest Weber (6-6) at center, Ralph Kaplowitz (6-2) and Sonny Hertzberg (6-0) at forward and Ossie Schectman (6-0) and Leo Gottlieb (5-11) at guard. The Chicago lineup included Chuck Halbert (6-9½) at center; Bill Davis (6-3) and Max Zaslofsky (6-2) at the forwards and Tony Jaros (6-1) and Mickey Rottner (5-10) at the guards. Pat Kennedy and John Nucatola were the game officials. The Stags won, 78-68, in overtime. New York finished third in its division, while Chicago won its division and the league championship.

NEW YORK KNICKERBOCKERS ON TV AND RADIO

BOB WOLFF

Two of the nation's top sportscasters will feature an extensive television-radio media program schedule which will bring Knick fans 21 of New York's road games and all 41 home games this season. Joining the Garden in this promotion are the F & M Schaefer Brewing Co., Eastern Airlines, The Coca-Cola Company and Lincoln-Mercury Dealer Ass'n., New York District.

MARV ALBERT

Bob Wolff will handle the play-by-play for 21 televised games via WOR-TV (Channel 9). Prior to joining Madison Square Garden Corporation in 1966, Bob had telecast major Garden events for 12 years. Well-known on the national scene, Wolff's assignments have included the World Series, Rose Bowl, Sugar Bowl, National Invitation Tournament, the NBA and Stanley Cup Playoffs, plus numerous sports specials.

A graduate of Duke University, memorable moments Wolff has had in his broadcasting career include the Don Larsen perfect game; Bob Cousy's last pro basketball game with the Celtics; the game in which Bobby Hull scored his record-breaking 51st goal; the Giants-Colts overtime football championship in 1958; and Joe Lapchick's final Holiday Festival victory with St. John's University during his retiring year.

Marv Albert, one of the youngest sportscasters in local and network broadcasting, will narrate all 41 of the Knick home games, plus New York's Feb. 1 game at Detroit, via WHN Radio (1050 on your dial). One-time ball boy for the Knicks, Marv is a graduate of Syracuse University where he conducted his own campus disc-jockey show. While at Syracuse he hooked on with the Mutual Broadcasting System and called the play-by-play for International League baseball games.

At 14 Marv was an office boy with the Brooklyn Dodgers; at 20 he joined Marty Glickman as a broadcasting professional, doing the Knicks and Ranger games from the Garden. He also hosted WCBS's weekly "High School Sports Roundup" and found time to serve as associate producer of WABC-TV's "High School Game of the Week."

All telecasts, which will include a Baltimore-Boston game on Nov. 14, will start at 9 p.m., except the Dec. 26 Knick game at Los Angeles (11 p.m.) and the Jan. 12 game against Phoenix at Salt Lake City (10 p.m.).

Radio broadcasts will be offered at 7:30 p.m. weekdays and 8 p.m. on Saturday nights. The Dec. 30 matinee game will go on the air at 1:30 p.m.; the March 8 afternoon game will begin at 1:55 p.m.; and the Feb. 1 game at Detroit will be aired at 2 p.m.
